

A&M responsible for this engagement, I had a lead role in preparing the Debtor's chapter 11 filings, developing the Debtor's business plans, and providing diligence to certain of the Debtor's key constituencies. In doing so, I have become familiar with the Debtor's day-to-day operations, financial affairs, and books and records through review of certain financial documents, discussions with management, and discussions with the DRVC's other professionals.

3. Historically, any claims alleging liability for sexual abuse or related misconduct against the DRVC, certain individuals (the "Individual Defendants"), the parishes that effectuate the DRVC's mission (the "Parishes"), or the various affiliate organizations of the DRVC (each such organization, a "DRVC Affiliate" and, together with the Parishes, the "DRVC Related Parties"), have, with very limited exception, been litigated and administered by the DRVC in close coordination with the DRVC Related Parties. This approach is due to the relationship between the DRVC and the DRVC Related Parties, and the fact that many of the key allegations made by plaintiffs in such cases are substantially directed at the DRVC. Consistent with past practice, the DRVC must coordinate many aspects of the litigation with the DRVC Related Parties, including responses to discovery requests. The majority of such requests are ultimately directed at the DRVC because the DRVC maintains most of the responsive documents.

4. Currently, over 200 personal injury lawsuits are pending in New York state court (collectively, the "State Court Actions") against the DRVC, certain DRVC Related Parties, certain Individual Defendants, and certain other defendants alleging liability for personal injury tort claims stemming from sexual abuse or misconduct arising out of the plaintiffs' involvement or connection with the DRVC. A complete listing of the State Court Actions is attached hereto as Exhibit A. Although the State Court Actions vary in their procedural posture, none are close to trial. All of the State Court Actions are in either the discovery or motion practice phase.

5. Continuing to litigate the State Court Actions during the pendency of this chapter 11 case—even if they only proceed against other defendants, such as the DRVC Related Parties or the Individual Defendants—will be extremely burdensome on the DRVC and disrupt the administration and expeditious reorganization of the DRVC’s estate's assets to the detriment of all creditors.

6. In particular, prior to the filing of the DRVC’s bankruptcy case, key DRVC personnel, including the legal, financial, and risk management departments, devoted substantial time and attention to matters related to the State Court Actions. Specifically, the DRVC’s General Counsel and Chief Operating Officer was required to review, analyze, and approve settlements, strategies, and expenses with respect to the State Court Actions. In addition, key DRVC personnel had to monitor the status of the State Court Actions and coordinate with the DRVC Related Parties.

7. These same key personnel will need to focus their full attention on tasks related to the DRVC’s restructuring efforts. Such efforts will include (i) consulting with various professionals engaged by the DRVC in connection with the bankruptcy case, (ii) participating in mediation and negotiations with creditors, including abuse victims, (iii) supporting the claims administration process, (iv) supervising the preparation of documentation needed to implement the DRVC’s reorganization, and (v) consulting on a regular basis with the Bishop and other DRVC officers with respect to the foregoing.

8. Accordingly, the success of the DRVC’s reorganization efforts will, in large part, be reliant on the time and efforts that its key personnel are able to expend toward ensuring a successful reorganization. The DRVC’s continued ability to focus its efforts on the reorganization process will maximize the value of the DRVC's estate for the benefit of all creditors.

9. On the other hand, should the State Court Actions go forward against the DRVC's co-defendants, the DRVC's key personnel would likely be called as trial witnesses and otherwise would have to actively participate in the litigation during the pendency of the bankruptcy case. The DRVC's involvement would include formulating defense strategies, assisting in discovery, protecting against disclosure of privileged or otherwise protected documents, attending depositions, preparing witnesses, and many other tasks required by the ongoing litigation. The DRVC's reorganization efforts and its estate will suffer real and substantial harm to the detriment of all creditors if the DRVC's key personnel are required to actively participate in the State Court Actions instead of concentrating their efforts on the bankruptcy case.

10. Finally, should the State Court Actions be allowed to continue—even only as against other defendants, such as the DRVC Related Parties and the Individual Defendants—my understanding is that the DRVC and its estate could face potential contribution, indemnification, collateral estoppel and/or res judicata issues with respect to the DRVC Related Parties, which would effectively compel the DRVC to monitor and participate in the numerous trials of the State Court Actions. Relatedly, if the DRVC faces potential contribution and indemnification obligations from the DRVC Related Parties, or if the DRVC Related Parties use limited insurance proceeds to pay any monetary awards to the plaintiffs in the State Court Actions, or if any defense costs are incurred and paid from limited insurance proceeds in connection with the State Court Actions, such events will also consume assets of the estate to the detriment of other creditors.

11. Absent a stay, the DRVC would be required to engage fully in the defense of the DRVC Related Parties and Individual Defendants, even as it attempts to resolve claims against itself in its bankruptcy case. The DRVC's continued ability to focus its efforts solely on the reorganization process, instead of simultaneously defending its interests in the State Court Actions, will maximize the value of the DRVC's estate for the benefit of all creditors.
